

WHAT?

WP COMES IN MANY FORMS AND CAN OFTEN BE DISPLAYED WITHOUT BEING RECOGNIZED BY THE PRIVILEGED PERSON. ALSO, WP DEEPLY IMPACTS THE COLLEGE LEARNING AND LIVING ENVIRONMENTS.

FOR THIS WEEK PLEASE WATCH THE TWO VIDEOS BELOW. ONE IS AN INTRODUCTION TO WP AND THE OTHER DEPICTS MANY FORMS OF WP FROM A LENS OF LIVED EXPERIENCE:

- HTTPS://YOUTU.BE/AQK8H0Z-IRM
- HTTPS://YOUTU.BE/-FPNOLVFL30

REFLECTION

Following watching both videos and based on your own experiences, reflect on the following:

- In 2-3 sentences what is your definition of WP? (Send to Sean)
- Did anything in the second video make you uncomfortable? How? Why?
- How do you think your WP impacts your job? Your personal life?
- How do you think WP impacts our students? Both their individualized development and interactions with one another?
- By understanding WP, how/what can we change in CCP to increase the support we can provide for our students?
- How would you support someone who argued that WP is "fake" and just used by "snowflakes"?

WHITE PRIVILEGE

WORD-A-WEDNESDAY

Mr. Joy's Corner

- Don't let your privilege turn into guilt. Check-yourself and then support others in their learning.
- Historical context is important here. Folks will complain that WP is people just whining. It's not. If you look into our history as white folk, you can see it is real.
- It's ok to admit that you have contributed to your WP. That is you learning and growing.

OTHER RESOURCES

Books

- White Like Me by Tim Wise
- All Souls by Michael Patrick McDonald
- Waking Up White by Debby Irving

Links

- <https://youtu.be/J3Xe1kX7Wsc>
- <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=GTvU7uUgjUI>
- <http://www.huffingtonpost.com>